INTRODUCTION

This report is a statistical analysis of the principal provisions contained in Ontario Collective Agreements covering 24,800 full-time employees of municipal governments. The report consists of 2 parts.

PART I - WORKING CONDITIONS*

Part I consists of 56 tables. The first 6 tables give information on the geographical distribution of municipal contracts, the unions that are party to them, their duration, and the sizes and types of bargaining unit to which they apply. The remaining tables classify the agreements and employee-coverage data for specific provisions by type of bargaining unit. These provisions include clauses concerned with union membership, check-off of union dues and other deductions, hours of work, and virtually all arrangements for remuneration above basic wage rates such as overtime compensation, shift premiums, paid time-off, and employer contributions to health, welfare and pension plans. Related provisions are grouped together in 8 separate sections identified in the Table of Contents.

The tables show the prevalence of major working conditions in terms of agreements and employees covered by 210 municipal contracts. The contracts include all those classified as local government collective agreements and on file in the Ministry of Labour's Collective Agreements Library when the data were compiled on June 30, 1973. Of these 210 agreements, 151

were current on that date and the remaining 59 were in various stages of renegotiation. (The Library endeavours to have on file all Ontario Collective Agreements.)

Regional and County Distribution

Central Ontario, with 45 contracts, has the greatest concentration of municipal agreements found in any of the 10 economic regions of the Province. These agreements apply to 12,500 employees, about 50 per cent of the coverage of the study. Over 11,000 of the workers covered by them are found in York County (including Metropolitan Toronto).

Northeastern Ontario and Niagara regions rank second and third in terms of numbers of agreements analyzed, with 33 and 24 respectively. These agreements, however, apply to only 5.5 and 11.8 per cent of the employees. The number of agreements in the remaining 7 regions ranges from 19 in Lake St. Clair down to 12 in Midwestern Ontario, and the number of employees covered by them from 3,289 in Eastern Ontario to 234 in Georgian Bay.

Union Representing Municipal Workers

More than four-fifths of the agreements analyzed are with the Canadian Union of Public Employees. These 177 contracts cover 24,000 employees, or almost 97 per cent of the total coverage. The remaining 33 agreements are distributed among 11 other unions, and 5 contracts is the largest number held by any of these unions.

Size of Bargaining Unit

Small bargaining units are a predominant feature of local government labour relations. About 64 per cent of the agreements (135) apply to units of fewer than 50 employees, but these units apply to only approximately 10 per cent of all employees included in the study. On the other hand, bargaining units of 200 employees or more account for 12 per cent of the agreements analyzed and cover 71 per cent of the employee total.

Type of Bargaining Unit

Four types of bargaining units are identified in the analysis according to the employees they cover: "Non-office", "Office", "Non-Office and Office" and "Professional". Four contracts applying to foremen are included in the 134 non-office agreements, but the remaining 130 contracts in this category refer only to non-supervisory workers. In the 50 agreements classified as "Office" there are 2 that cover both office and professional employees.

The "Non-Office" bargaining units apply to a smaller proportion of the 24,800 workers covered by the study than of the number of agreements analyzed, 53 per cent compared to 64 per cent. The "Office" agreements and those that include both non-office and office occupations apply to about the same proportion of employees.

Union Security

Some form of union membership requirement is contained in 55 per cent of the agreements. The union shop is the most prevalent; it occurs in 38 per cent of the contracts and affects 58 per cent of the total employees. Modified union shop and the maintenance of membership appear in 11 and 6 per cent of agreements respectively, but in terms of employees, a much larger proportion is affected by modified union-shop provisions.

Virtually all the agreements (206) include provisions for union dues check-off. Fifty-nine of them also call for check-off of initiation fees and/or assessments. All except 16 of the employees are affected by union dues check-off. For 84 per cent of them the check-off is compulsory, and for 4 per cent it is voluntary.

Hours of Work

The 40 hour week is the most prevalent established by municipal agreements. It occurs in 54 per cent of the contracts and covers 48 per cent of the employees. It applies predominantly to non-office employees, both those organized in bargaining units composed entirely of such workers and those that include office workers as well. The normal work week for employees in office and professional classifications ranges widely from 32 to 37-1/2 hours.

Overtime Compensation

For both office and non-office workers, pay at time and one-half the employee's regular wage rate is the most prevalent compensation specified for work in excess of normal daily hours. This rate appears in more than 76 per cent of the agreements, and applies to 75 per cent of the employees.

Shift Premiums

Premium pay is provided for second and third shifts in 54 and 58 per cent of the agreements, respectively. In terms of agreements, amounts of 15 and 20 cents per hour are the most prevalent premiums paid for both shifts. They occur for the second shift in 12 and 14 per cent of the contracts, respectively; and for the third shift, in 11 and 17 per cent of the contracts.

Measured in terms of employees, the 20¢ premium applies to larger proportions than the 15¢ one. For the second shift, 52 per cent of the employees receive the 20¢ premium, compared to 14 per cent who are entitled to a 15¢ one. The proportions for the third shift are 59 and 6 percent, respectively.

Pay Guarantees

Of the two pay guarantee provisions analyzed, call-back clauses are the more common. They appear in 88 per cent of the agreements, while reporting guarantees are included in only 29 per cent of them.

A minimum of 4 hours of work or pay is the most prevalent reporting guarantee. It occurs in 16 per cent of the agreements and covers 33 per cent of the total employees. A guarantee of 3 hours is specified in 5 per cent of the contracts covering 10 per cent of the employees. In 6 per cent of the contracts a guarantee of 2 hours is provided and applies to 3 per cent of the employees.

A minimum of 2 hours is the most frequent call-back guarantee provided. It appears in 40 per cent of the agreements covering 56 per cent of the employees. Time and one-half the employee's hourly wage rate is the most common single payment applicable to call-backs. It occurs in 18 per cent of the agreements and covers 26 per cent of the employees. In 34 per cent of the contracts, the employee receives the overtime rate that applies at the time he is called back.

Jury Duty Pay

Pay for working-time lost while serving on a jury is provided in 78 per cent of the agreements covering 95 per cent of the employees. The most common provisions calls for the employer to make up the difference between the employee's regular pay and the jury fees which he receives. This arrangement is found in 74 per cent of the agreements and applies to 91 per cent of the employees.

Paid Bereavement Leave

Paid absences due to death in an employee's family are provided in 94 per cent of the agreements representing 99 per cent of the workers. A maximum allowance of 3 days is the most common practice. It occurs in 52 per cent of the contracts and applies to 71 per cent of the employees. In 22 per cent of the agreements, 3 days are allowed for the death of a member of the immediate family and one-half to 2 days for the death of other relatives. Fifteen agreements provide a basic 3-day leave and an additional 1 to 7 days of reasonable time if travel is required.

Paid Sick Leave

allowance of 18 days is the most prevalent practice in those agreements which specify the amount of sick leave that is granted. This provisions occurs in 71 per cent of the contracts, and applies to 90 per cent of the employees.

Accumulation of sick leave credits is specifically provided for in 176 agreements. Of the remaining 34 agreements, data were not available for 20 and 14 either did not contain paid sick leave provisions or did not provide for accumulation.

Of the 176 agreements that specifically provide for sick leave accumulation 110 do not place any limits on the number of days that can be carried over from year to year. Sixty-two contracts, however, limit the total amount that can be accrued.

In 148 agreements it is specified that employees will be paid for unused sick leave when their employment is terminated for reasons other than retirement. In 127 of these agreements the payment is made for one-half of the employee's accrued sick leave, and is calculated on his wage rate at termination.

Payment for unused sick leave on retirement is specified in 127 agreements. In 89 of these contracts the retiring employee receives cash for one-half of his accumulated sick leave, and in 23 agreements the employee is paid for all of his unused sick leave.

Paid Holidays

All employees in the study are covered by paid holiday provisions. Seventy-seven per cent of them, covered by 56 per cent of the agreements, receive pay for 11 full holidays. Agreements specifying 10 paid holidays account for 16 per cent of the total number of contracts, and apply to 4 per cent of the employees.

Time and one-half the regular rate of pay in addition to holiday pay is the most prevalent compensation provided for holiday work. This rate appears in 52 per cent of the agreements, and covers 54 per cent of the employees. Double time plus holiday pay occurs in 25 per cent of the agreements and is paid to 16 per cent of the employees. Two per cent of the agreements, covering less than 1 per cent of the employees, provide for straight time plus holiday pay. None of the other arrangements reported are found in more than 5 contracts.

Paid Vacations

Paid vacations are provided by all the agreements analyzed. A maximum vacation of 3 weeks appears in 3 per cent (6), 4 weeks in 33 per cent (70), and 5 weeks in 60 per cent (126) of the agreements. Two contracts grant a maximum of 6 weeks, 3 a maximum of 7 weeks, and one a maximum of 10 weeks. Two contracts place no limit on earned vacation, providing one additional day of vacation for each year worked after 25 years of service.

The most common qualifying period for a 2-week vacation is 1 year and it affects 99 per cent of the employees. For 1 per cent of the employees the qualifying period is less than 1 year, and for only one-half per cent of them the qualifying period is 2 years.

All the agreements provide for a 3-week vacation, and the maximum qualifying period is 15 years. The most prevalent qualifying period is 5 years, after which 71 per cent of the workers earn a 3-week vacation. Three per cent of the employees qualify after 4 years, 8 per cent after 7 years, and 1 per cent after 8 years. The minimum qualifying period for a 3-week vacation is 1 year, but it appears in only 1 agreement affecting 7 employees.

A 4-week vacation is allowed in 97 per cent of the agreements covering all but 0.3 per cent of the employees in the study. The principal qualifying period is 15 years, found in 62 per cent of the contracts and affecting 77 per cent of the workers. A 4-week vacation is granted after 10 years of service to 2 per cent of the employees covered by 6 per cent of the contracts, and to 1 per cent of the employees covered by 6 per cent of the contracts after 20 years. The minimum qualifying period for a 4-week vacation is 9 years, and it appears in 2 agreements covering 423 workers.

Sixty-three per cent of the agreements covering 93 per cent of the workers provide a 5-week vacation. The predominant practice is to grant 5 weeks after 25 years of service. Such a provision is found in 42 per cent of the agreements affecting 80 per cent of the employees.

Health, Insurance and Pension Plans

Basic hospital, medical and surgical insurance plans are included in more than 99 per cent of the agreements. For 91 per cent of the employees represented by 68 per cent of the agreements, the employer pays 100 per cent of the premiums for the plan. In 10 per cent of the agreements involving 3 per cent of the workers, the employer pays 75 per cent of the premiums.

Life insurance plans are provided in 84 per cent of the agreements and apply to 97 per cent of the employees. In 48 per cent of the agreements affecting 59 per cent of the employees, 100 per cent of the plan premiums is paid by the employer. In 10 per cent of the contracts which apply to 19 per cent of employees, two-thirds of the premium is contributed by the employer. Seven per cent of the contracts covering 2 per cent of the employees call for the employer to pay 75 per cent of the premium. In 6 per cent of the contracts covering 9 per cent of the employees, both parties contribute equally to the cost of the insurance plan.

Pension plans are found in 81 per cent of the agreements covering 94 per cent of the workers. Seventy-two per cent of the agreements stipulate that the employer and the employee will share the cost of the retirement benefits. In 8 per cent of them the financing arrangement is not specified.

PART II - WAGES

Part II of the report consists of one table showing the rates of pay provided for two occupations - labourer and clerk-typist. These are the basic non-office and clerical classifications most commonly found in municipal agreements. The agreements from which the rates were taken are listed alphabetically, by the names of the municipalities concerned, and are arranged by the ten economic regions of Ontario.

The wage rates were obtained from 175 agreements. Of these, 143 were current and 32 were being renegotiated when the wage data were compiled in July of 1973. For the 143 current agreements, the rates in effect on June 30, 1973 or later were reported. For the 32 agreements under renegotiation, only the final rates provided when these agreements expired have been reported. The number of agreements analyzed in Part II and the information on whether or not they are current varies from the similar data shown for Part I because not all of the analyzed contracts specified the occupations selected.

For each of the occupations specified, the table shows the minimum and maximum or single wage rates paid after the probationary period on an hourly, weekly, monthly or yearly basis. Where a single rate occurs, it is shown in the column marked "MAXIMUM". The effective date for each rate is given and the date entered in the last column of the table is the termination date of the contract.

The report was prepared in the Ministry of Labour, Research Branch by Agnes Gesing, assisted by Frederick W. Groom, George C. Cameron, Thomas Ritchie, George H. Thomas and Anna Smith under the general direction of Lenard Haywood.

Note:

A union shop requires all employees to become members of the union within a specified time and to remain members as a condition of continued employment. A modified union shop is the same as a union shop except that certain groups or classes of employees may be exempted, most commonly employees hired before a specified date or those who were not members at the time the agreement took effect. Under a maintenance of membership provision present employees who are members of the union at a specified time must remain members for the duration of the agreement; present employees who are not members are not required to join the union, new employees need not join but if they do they must maintain their membership as a condition of continued employment.

INTRODUCTION

This report is a statistical analysis of the principal provisions contained in Ontario collective agreements covering 25,750 full-time employees of municipal governments. The report consists of 2 parts.

PART I - WORKING CONDITIONS

Part I consists of 56 tables. The first 6 tables give information on the geographical distribution of municipal contracts, the unions that are party to them, their duration, and the sizes and types of bargaining unit to which they apply. The remaining tables classify the agreements and employee-coverage data by type of bargaining unit for specific provisions. These provisions include clauses concerned with union membership, check-off of union dues and other deductions, hours of work, and virtually all arrangements for remuneration above basic wage rates such as overtime compensation, shift premiums, paid time-off, and employer contributions to health, welfare and pension plans. Related provisions are grouped together in 8 separate sections identified in the Table of Contents.

The tables show the prevalence of major working conditions in terms of agreements and employees covered by 228 municipal contracts. The contracts include all those classified as local government collective agreements and on file in the Ministry of Labour's Collective Agreements Library when the data were compiled as of November 30, 1974. Of these 228 agreements, 213 were current on that date and the remaining 15 were in various stages of renegotiation. (The Library endeavours to have on file all Ontario collective agreements.)

Regional and County Distribution

Central Ontario, with 43 contracts, has the greatest concentration of municipal agreements found in any of the 10 economic regions of the Province. These agreements apply to 12,800 employees, about 50 per cent of the coverage of the study. Over 11,000 of the workers covered by them are found in York County (including Metropolitan Toronto).

Northeastern Ontario, Eastern Ontario and Lake St. Clair regions rank second, third and fourth in numbers of agreements analyzed, with 31, 24 and 24 respectively. These agreements, however, apply to only 6.2, 12.5 and 3.9 per cent of the employees. The number of agreements in the remaining 6 regions ranges from 23 in Niagara down to 12 in Midwestern Ontario, and the number of employees covered by them from 2,819 in Niagara to 418 in Georgian Bay.

Unions Representing Municipal Workers

More than 85 per cent of the agreements analyzed are with the Canadian Union of Public Employees. These 196 contracts cover 25,000 employees, or almost 97 per cent of the total coverage. The remaining 32 agreements are distributed among 10 other unions. Six contracts is the largest number held by any of these unions.

Size of Bargaining Unit

Small bargaining units are a predominant feature of local government labour relations. About 64 per cent of the agreements (145) pertain to units of fewer than 50 employees, but these units apply to only 10 per cent of all employees included in the study. On the other hand, bargaining units of 200 employees or more account for 11 per cent of the agreements analyzed and cover 70 per cent of the employee total.

Type of Bargaining Unit

Four types of bargaining unit are identified in the analysis according to the employees they cover: "Non-office", "Office", "Professional" and "Non-Office, Office and Professional". Five contracts applying to foremen are included in the 142 non-office agreements. The remaining 137 contracts in this category refer to non-supervisory workers only.

The "Non-Office" bargaining units apply to a smaller proportion of the 25,750 workers covered by the study than of the number of agreements analyzed, 52 per cent compared to 62 per cent. The "Office" agreements and those that combine non-office, office and professional employees apply to about 22 and 25 per cent of the employee total, respectively.

Union Security

Some form of union membership requirement is contained in 53 per cent of the agreements. The union shop is the most prevalent; it occurs in 38 per cent of the contracts and affects 58 per cent of the total employees. Modified union shop and maintenance of membership appear in 9 and 6 per cent of the agreements respectively but, in terms of employees, a much larger proportion is affected by modified union shop provisions.

Virtually all of the agreements (225) include provisions for union dues check-off. Sixty-five of them also call for check-off of initiation fees and/or assessments. All except 14 of the employees are affected by union dues check-off. For 84 per cent of them the check-off is compulsory and for 5 per cent it is voluntary.

Hours of Work

The 40-hour week is the most prevalent established by municipal agreements. It occurs in 51 per cent of the contracts and covers 47 per cent of the employees. It applies predominantly to non-office employees, both those organized in bargaining units composed entirely of such workers and those in units combining non-office and office employees. The normal work week for employees in office and professional classifications varies widely from 32-1/2 to 40 hours, with 35 hours per week provided in 67 inside employees' contracts.

Overtime Compensation

For both office and non-office workers, pay at time and one-half the employee's regular wage rate is the most prevalent compensation specified for work in excess of normal daily hours. This rate appears in about 74 per cent of the agreements and applies to 78 per cent of the employees.

Shift Premiums

Premium pay is provided for second and third shifts in 53 and 54 per cent of the agreements, respectively. In terms of agreements, amounts of 15 and 20 cents per hour are the most prevalent premiums paid for both shifts. They occur for the second shift in 9 and 11 per cent of the contracts, respectively; and for the third shift, in 8 and 16 per cent of the contracts.

Measured in terms of employees, the 20-cent premium applies to larger proportions than the 15-cent one. For the second shift, 43 per cent of the employees receive a 20-cent premium, compared to 7 per cent who are entitled to a 15-cent one. The proportions for the third shift are 46 and 4 per cent, respectively. The amount paid per hour for either shift ranges from 10 to 35 cents.

Pay Guarantees

Of the two pay guarantee provisions analyzed, call-back clauses are the more common. They appear in 87 per cent of the agreements while reporting guarantees are included in only 30 per cent of them.

A minimum of 4 hours of work or pay is the most prevalent reporting guarantee. It occurs in 15 per cent of the agreements and covers 29 per cent of the total employees. A guarantee of 3 hours is specified in 4 per cent of the contracts covering 9 per cent of the employees. In 3 per cent of the contracts a guarantee of 2 hours is provided. It applies to less than 2 per cent of the employees.

A minimum of 2 hours is the most frequent call-back guarantee provided. It appears in 41 per cent of the agreements covering 43 per cent of the employees. Time and one-half the employee's hourly wage rate is the most common single payment applicable to call-backs. It occurs in 21 per cent of the agreements and covers 26 per cent of the employees. In 38 per cent of the contracts, the employee receives the overtime rate that applies at the time he is called back.

Jury Duty Pay

Pay for working-time lost while serving on a jury is provided in 82 per cent of the agreements covering 95 per cent of the employees. The most common provision calls for the employer to make up the difference between the employee's regular pay and the jury fee which he receives. This arrangement is found in 77 per cent of the agreements and applies to 91 per cent of the employees.

Paid Bereavement Leave

Paid absences due to death in an employee's family are provided in 96 per cent of the agreements representing 99 per cent of the workers. A maximum allowance of 3 days is the most common practice. It occurs in 43 per cent of the contracts and applies to 62 per cent of the employees. In 32 per cent of the agreements, 3 days are allowed for the death of a member of the immediate family and one-half to 2 days for the death of other relatives. Seventeen agreements provide a basic 3-day leave and an additional 1 to 7 days of reasonable travel-time if required.

Paid Sick Leave

Paid sick leave provisions are contained in 97 per cent of the agreements, and cover all but 0.2 per cent of the employees. An annual allowance of 18 days is the most prevalent practice in those agreements which specify the amount of sick leave granted. This provision occurs in 75 per cent of the contracts and applies to 92 per cent of the employees.

Accumulation of sick leave credits is specifically provided for in 193 agreements. Of the remaining 35 agreements, data were not available for 17, 16 either did not contain paid sick leave provisions or did not provide for accumulation and 2 converted unused sick leave to a cash payment at the year's end.

Of the 193 agreements that specifically provide for sick leave accumulation, 126 do not place any limits on the number of days that can be carried over from year to year. Sixty-seven contracts, however, limit the total amount that can be accrued.

In 162 agreements it is specified that employees will be paid for unused sick leave when their employment is terminated for reasons other than retirement. In 139 of these agreements, payment is made for one-half of the employee's accrued sick leave and is calculated on his wage rate at termination.

Payment for unused sick leave on retirement is specified in 139 agreements. In 98 of these contracts the retiring employee receives cash for one-half of his accumulated sick leave, and in 28 of them, he is paid for all of his unused sick leave.

Paid Holidays

All employees in the study are covered by paid holiday provisions. Seventy per cent of them, covered by 46 per cent of the agreements, receive pay for 11 holidays. Agreements specifying 12 paid holidays account for 16 per cent of the total number of contracts and apply to 12.6 per cent of the employees. Ten paid holidays are found in about 19 per cent of agreements, but they apply to only 4 per cent of the employees.

Time and one-half the regular rate of pay in addition to holiday pay is the most prevalent compensation provided for holiday work. This rate appears in 48 per cent of the agreements and covers 39 per cent of the employees. Double time plus holiday pay occurs in 28 per cent of the agreements and is paid to 17 per cent of the employees. About two per cent of the agreements, covering fewer than 1 per cent of the employees, provide for straight time plus holiday pay. None of the other compensation provisions reported are found in more than 6 contracts.

Paid Vacations

Paid vacations are provided by all the agreements analyzed. A maximum vacation of 3 weeks appears in less than 2 per cent (4), 4 weeks in 26 per cent (59) and 5 weeks in about 65 per cent (147) of the agreements. Eleven contracts grant a maximum of 6 weeks, 2 a maximum of 7 weeks, and 1 a maximum of 10 weeks. Two contracts place no limit on earned vacation, providing one additional day of vacation for each year worked after 25 years of service.

The most common qualifying period for a 2-week vacation is 1 year and it affects 98 per cent of the employees. For 0.3 per cent of the employees the qualifying period is less than 1 year, and for only 0.2 per cent of them the qualifying period is 2 years.

All the agreements provide for a 3-week vacation and the maximum qualifying period is 13 years. The most prevalent qualifying period is 5 years, after which 62 per cent of the workers earn a 3-week vacation. Less than 12 per cent of the employees qualify after 4 years, about 6 per cent after 3 years, and 3 per cent after 7 years. The minimum qualifying period for a 3-week vacation is 1 year, but it appears in only 2 agreements affecting 71 employees.

A 4-week vacation is allowed in 98 per cent of the agreements covering all but 0.2 per cent of the employees in the study. The most common qualifying period is 15 years. It is found in 44 per cent of the contracts but affects only 28 per cent of the workers. A 4-week vacation is granted to about 45 per cent of the employees covered by 19 per cent of the contracts after 13 years of service, to 4 per cent of the employees covered by 11 per cent of the contracts after 10 years and to 0.2 per cent of the employees after a maximum of 22 years. The minimum qualifying period for a 4-week vacation is 7 years. It appears in 1 agreement covering only 3 workers.

Seventy-two per cent of the agreements covering 94 per cent of the workers provide a 5-week vacation. The predominant practice is to grant 5 weeks after 25 years of service. Such a provision is found in 30 per cent of the agreements affecting 33 per cent of the employees. The second most common practice is to grant 5 weeks after 20 years of service. Although found in 16 per cent of the contracts, it covers only 7 per cent of the employee total. The third most common practice is to grant a five-week vacation after 22 years of service. Only 9 per cent of the contracts contain this provision and yet they account for 40 per cent of the employees in the study.

A six-week vacation period is specified in 7 per cent of the agreements and applies to 9 per cent of the employees. The qualifying years of service for these 6 weeks range from 24 to 30.

Health, Insurance and Pension Plans

Basic hospital, medical and surgical insurance plans are included in all analyzed agreements. For 93 per cent of the employees represented by 73 per cent of the agreements, the employer pays 100 per cent of the premiums for the plan. In 6 per cent of the agreements involving 1 per cent of the workers, the employer pays 75 per cent of the premiums.

Life insurance plans are provided in 87 per cent of the agreements and apply to 98 per cent of the employees. In 55 per cent of the agreements affecting 65 per cent of the employees, 100 per cent of the plan premiums is paid by the employer. In 7 per cent of the contracts, which apply to 13 per cent of the employees, two-thirds of the premium is contributed by the employer. Four per cent of the contracts covering less than 2 per cent of the employees call for the employer to pay 75 per cent of the premium. In 4 per cent of the contracts, covering 9 per cent of the employees, both parties contribute equally to the cost of the insurance plan.

Pension plans are found in 83 per cent of the agreements covering 94 per cent of the workers. Seventy-six per cent of the agreements stipulate that the employer and the employee will share the cost of the retirement benefits.

In 7 per cent of them the financing arrangement is not specified.

PART II - WAGES

Part II of the report consists of one table showing the rates of pay provided for two occupations - labourer and clerk-typist. These are the basic non-office and clerical classifications most commonly found in municipal agreements. The agreements from which the rates were taken are listed alphabetically by the names of the municipalities concerned, and are arranged by the ten economic regions of Ontario.

The wage rates were obtained from 190 agreements. Of these, 174 were current and 16 were being renegotiated when the wage data were compiled in November of 1974. For the 174 current agreements, the rates in effect on June 30, 1974 or later were reported. For the 16 agreements under renegotiation, only the rates being paid when these agreements expired have been reported. The number of agreements analyzed in Part II and the information on whether or not they are current varies from the similar data shown for Part I because not all of the analyzed contracts specify the occupations selected.

For each of the occupations specified, the table shows the minimum and maximum or single wage rates paid after the probationary period on an hourly, weekly, monthly or yearly basis. Where a single rate occurs, it is shown in the column marked "MAXIMUM". The effective date for each rate is given and the date entered in the last column of the table is the termination date of the contract.

The report was prepared in the Ministry of Labour, Research Branch by Agnes Gesing, assisted by Frederick W. Groom, George C. Cameron and Anna Smith under the general direction of Lenard Haywood.
